AN INTRODUCTION FROM SIMON FORD

Allstone – Speedy Skips is still very much a family business and as the “Home of Recycling” we’ve continued to grow and develop for more than forty years.

Supporting good causes and putting something back into the community is very important to us. Recently we were very proud to sponsor the Lydbrook Band centenary concert, held at Gloucester Cathedral and in memory of Jeanette Street, my mother and wife of our founder Bob Street. You can see a photograph of Jeanette and Bob here, bringing back fond memories and again, reminding us of our links to family and community.

The Allstone business is proud to boast “families within the family”, employing people from diverse cultural backgrounds, some of whom are part of their own family groups too. Joining this collective are new members of the Senior Leadership Team, a team brought together to lead Allstone on the next part of its journey.

INTRODUCTION TO OUR NEW MD, ROWAN ELLIOTT

Having stepped into the role of managing Director at Allstone – Speedy Skips, I’m hugely proud to represent and lead the business. Recycling over 90% of materials it handles every day, Allstone is a business focused on helping customers reach their environmental goals.

Whether you’re a large organisation or a private client, Allstone is here to support you in delivering real sustainability benefits now and into the future.

Like all responsible businesses, Allstone never loses focus on what makes it good, and this is very much at the heart of its 3 core principles - Keeping People Safe, Delivering Value and grasping opportunities to Grow.

As Simon said in his introduction, Allstone is very much a family business, but one with a real drive and passion to develop both individuals and the collective.
